24th Sunday after Pentecost

Today the prophet Amos calls for justice to roll down like waters. Paul urges us to encourage one another with the promised coming of the Lord. Jesus tells the parable of the wise and foolish bridesmaids. Surrounded by the faithful of every time and place, we celebrate Christ's coming in our midst in the word of life and the feast of victory—the marriage feast of the lamb.

First Reading: Amos 5:18-24

Psalm 70

Second Reading: 1 Thessalonians 4:13-18

Gospel: Matthew 25:1-13

Growth at the crossroads

At this moment of celebration and reflection, let us pause and consider what comes next. The challenges we face are constantly evolving; so are the ways in which we respond, and we know that our commitment to action is needed now more than ever.

Over the last 50 years, we have learned that, to secure the justice first identified in the 1974 hunger appeal, we must focus on the root causes of hunger and how they intersect. In the years ahead, with your support, ELCA World Hunger will further invest in holistic, integrated work at these intersections, because they are where we find the complex injustices giving rise to food insecurity and malnutrition. Also, by providing support for integrated projects, we can ensure that our partners can remain agile in responding to changes in their contexts, such as a disaster or sudden economic shift.

In our 50th year we are making a bold commitment to increase our support of programs around the world. To do this, we need your help. Your investment is imperative to the program's continued response and growth alongside a changing world.

Whether you are new to the program, have been involved in the past or make ELCA World Hunger part of your annual giving, there are many ways to commemorate this milestone, including:

Join others in increasing your support to the program in honor of this anniversary.

Endow your annual gift to sustain the program for years to come.

GOSPEL MESSAGE

November 12, 2023

24th Sunday after Pentecost

Enough and Never Enough

Both the harsh words of the prophet Amos and the parable of the bridesmaids are scenes of anger—not pointless, misdirected frustration, but a prophetic call for change, a passionate plea that we redirect our focus. Sometimes, Amos says, anger is a result of not being heard. And sometimes, Jesus says, anger comes from fear of not being enough, not having enough, not doing enough. But being a child of God comes as a gift from God, who has poured out God’s justice and righteousness on us in abundance so that we may care about those who are lacking.

What good is worship, Amos asks, if it doesn’t change your lives—or that of your neighbors? What good is worship if it does not spur us to make justice happen for our siblings? The anger we encounter in Amos is of the righteous kind, the kind intended to call us to action.

In contrast, the anger expressed in the parable of the bridesmaids is that born of fear. Who ever said that the bridegroom would not admit maidens who ran out of oil? Both the bridesmaids described as wise and those described as foolish are angry because of fear of missing out. Jesus is the light of the world, and so are you, he says (John 8:12; Matthew 5:14). But when your light grows dim and tired, exhausted and weary, and you cannot see the road ahead, his light will guide the way.

How different this parable might be if the bridesmaids with oil had shared their oil. If you are not ready, they might have said, let us show you how to be prepared. What good is the kingdom of heaven if we have not lived our lives in such a way as to light the pathway for others? What good is worship if we leave the building unmoved by the cries for justice all around us?
